Our first week of the 2nd semester was a very eventful one at preschool.

The children came back to the classroom to lots of new things, like harder puzzles, four more shapes to learn, and a new number chart that goes from one to twenty. We learned the number eleven this week. We are learning to write our first and last names now and are counting to seventy and eighty. In our Animated Literacy, we met Actress Annie. But the most exciting thing was we started our magnet unit. Thanks, moms, for sending new wet ones and glue sticks.

A change in our new schedule: A.M. Art with Mr. Lucas will now be at 8:35-9:05 on Tuesday mornings.

Testing was done in preschool this week to see progress made first semester. You will find some of the testing results in the red folders this week. Other testing results will be shared at Parent Teacher Conference time.

The P.M. Tiger Paws class enjoyed their monthly trip to the Effingham Public Library with Mrs. Oakleaf and Mrs. Taliferro and books all about winter.

Parents, you will find an enclosed letter from me telling about my decision to retire at the end of the 2007-2008 school year.

Reminder, we HAVE school on Monday, January 21st Martin Luther King Day as a make-up snow day!

Stay warm!!!!
