On this rainy spring week at preschool, we were busy starting our five sense unit. We did lots of smelling, tasting, and touching experiments and activities. We will continue with this unit into our short week next week.

We met Griselda Green in our Animated Literacy. You will notice in your child's folder that we have been working on writing our numbers and number recognition in Math. We have also been doing lots of classifying objects, which the children found fun to do, and we are learning beginning letter sounds and doing more rhyming, all of which helps with reading readiness skills.

I'm still waiting for nice spring weather to set up our class book parties which hopefully will be an outside activity. We will let you know more about this when plans are finalized!!!
