What's Going On?

This week the second graders will be reading Ann's First Day by Constance Andrea Kermes from their reading books. Vocabulary for this story is:

hurry

shy

lucky

crawls

carrots

homework

Please practice these words with your child. Have them use each word in a sentence.

The second graders will be reviewing 1st grade math concepts this week, and we will begin learning about place value. Please practice addition and subtraction facts with your child at home. It is very important that every child has his or her math facts memorized by the end of the year!

This week in writing we will review writing complete sentences with capital letters and correct punctuation.

The second graders will be discussing what they already know about science in their science journals.

Red folders will be sent home at a later date. They have been ordered but have not arrived yet!

Your child can bring a water bottle to school.

If you have any questions feel free to email or call.
